Forecast for Friday 16 Oct 2020

Weather: Clear and chilly towards the West Coast through morning with areas of cloud feeding west across Caithness, Sutherland and Easter Ross. Little change in cloud distribution expected through the day with this cloud bringing a few drizzly showers but the west will stay dry with plenty of sunshine.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 20% across the east with cloud fairly persistent above 400-600m. 90% Western coastal ranges.

Visibility: Rather dull across the east under low cloud and drizzle with fog conditions above modest heights. No issues across the sheltered west.

Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View
Feeling cold in the brisk easterly breeze, especially across the cloudier east.

Forecast for Saturday 17 Oct 2020
Weather: Large areas of low cloud persistent across the eastern ranges will gradually extend to more of the West Coast through the day, although Skye and Glen Shiel may stay clear throughout. Cloud will bring a few drizzly showers, especially in the north.

Maximum wind: North 10-15mph.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 10% north and east, 70% southwest. Cloud rather persistent above 400-600m.

Visibility: Very limited at height in the north and east due to hill fog and drizzle, but improved on lower slopes and likely staying very good across the southwest where skies remain clear.

Temperature: Glens: 1-4C rising 7-9C.
At 800m: 0-1C.
Freezing level: 1200m.
